CALIFORNIA JOTTINGS.—Dr. Lansweert, a chemist of San Francisco, recently subdued a large and vigorous rattlesnake, having eight rattles, by means of electricity. After a chemic-electric salutation, he took the reptile from a box, held him in his hands, and showed his poisonous fangs. The Doctor allowed the snake to creep up his arm and neck.

There are sixty-one thousand Indians in California, ten thousand of whom are collected on reservations.

A discovery of an earth-like chrome yellow was made some three years ago near Diamond Springs, El Dorado county, which is expected to prove an excellent paint. At that time a house was painted with the substance, the color of which is yet good. Tons of the stuff can be procured at a slight cost.

An old Mormon soldier in Carson Valley is the father of seven children, the oldest of whom is four years of age. He is the husband, however, of four women.

The Mexican population of Stockton celebrated St. John's Day by equestrian exercises, the chief sport consisting in burying a rooster in the earth, with the exception of the head, which was left out. They then rode at full speed past the poor fowl, each one endeavoring to catch the rooster's head by leaping over almost to the ground while passing. The feat requires great dexterity, as well as training on the part of the horse. The successful sportsman, after jerking the fowl from its premature burial place, commenced "slashing about," beating every one within his reach with his trophy, until it was wrested from him by another, who continued the same "sport," and the unfortunate fowl was soon torn to pieces. The beating received in this pastime is received in the best possible humor, and each horseman exerts himself to the utmost that he may be the first to get possession of the rooster.

A letter from Col. Bonneville, in command of the Gila expedition, says that there is being developed one of the most beautiful, fertile and healthy regions of our country, and that in all places it furnishes evidence of a former numerous people, more civilized and industrious, and no doubt more docile than the wandering Apache who now desolate it. Our efforts constantly at the heels of these Apaches forces them further West, crowding them upon more Western nations, who report their mountains inundated with new faces, who are forcing their way with rifle and revolver.

GENERAL WALKER.—In reference to the rumored intention of Gen. Walker to return to Nicaragua, the Washington States says: "If General Walker leaves this country again for Nicaragua, he will do so without any violation of our neutrality laws; nor will he, in our humble opinion, pursue any course calculated to involve this government in difficulties."

[From the Washington Union.]

ALLEGED CURE FOR SMALLPOX.—The consul of the United States at the Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil, has transmitted to the Department of State a very interesting communication from Dr. R. Landell, of Port Alegre, claiming the discovery of a cure for the smallpox. Dr. Landell states that the idea of using the remedy to be mentioned first occurred to him during a terrible epidemic of this disease in 1837, but that he first administered it in 1832, since which time his success, and that of his son, Dr. John Landell, and other colleagues in the treatment of smallpox, have been most flattering. As the Secretary of State has communicated Dr. Landell's paper entire to the leading journal of the medical profession in the United States, it is only necessary for our purpose to extract that portion of the paper which discloses the remedy and its proper exhibition:

"Dissolve the vaccine that is contained, on a pair of plates or a capillary tube, which is about four or six drops of vaccine lymph, in 4 or 6 ounces of cold water, and give to the patient a table spoonful every two or three hours.

"The favorable result of this exhibition is that it mitigates the symptoms, modifies the species, and cures the small pox."

"I recognise that as vaccine applied externally prevents the small pox, so also, being taken inwardly, in the manner above indicated, it cures quickly and efficaciously the small pox in all its stages."

"Under its use, the fever, the delirium, the hoarseness, diarrhea, pneumonia, cerebral congestion, and finally, the scrofulary fever disappear."

"Beginning the treatment on the second or third day of the eruption the smallpox becomes as varicella or varioloid; although the epidermis is thickened and in a state of congestion, and in five days becomes dry without suppuration."

"Apply the same treatment on the fourth or fifth day of the eruption, the smallpox becomes as if they were the true vaccine; fill and dry in the space of ten days with suppuration."

"Considering, then, that the vesicles and pustules ought to be opened, for two or three times, always that they contain any liquid, and beginning the third day to prevent the secondary fever. I have had since 1842 more than thirty cases, and in fourteen paid particular attention; there were three severe confluent cases, and eleven less severe, although distinct."

"Since I had recourse to this treatment I have not lost a single patient of the small-pox. At my request some of my colleagues are using this system, and they, as well as I, have reaped the most flattering results."

"These effects are superior to my expectation, and even to my comprehension; in fact, the vaccine neutralizes the varioloid virus, or one morbid action destroys the effects of another. By this treatment I have seen disappear the fever, delirium, hoarseness, diarrhea, pneumonia, cerebral congestion, and the secondary fever."

"It may be mentioned here that the use of emollient ointments or castor oil internally, to keep the bowels open, and in children calomel, is very necessary, as also gargaras of nitrate of silver and chloroform."

"And after the fifth day give baths of warm water, with a little chloruret of lime, or chloruret of soda, or sponge the body."

"Also have given vaccine inwardly as a therapeutic remedy in whooping cough, and with benefit; in some cases the whoop or convulsion cough disappears in ten hours, remaining only a simple cough, which extinguishes in four or twelve days."

An Incident of Balaklava.—When the light brigade was preparing for action, the butcher of his 17th lancers, who had just been performing his office, slaying the sheep and oxen, made his appearance in the field, without coat or waistcoat, his shirt sleeves rolled up, and his arms and face smeared with blood—a grotesque and terrible figure. He mounted a powerful charger and rode up to his troop. He had no business there, but the prospect of a bloody fray was too strong to be resisted. He seized two sabres, deliberately examined the temper and edges of the blades, selected the sharpest, and threw the other aside. He then with equal coolness took out a short black pipe, charged it, lit it, placed it in his mouth, and settling himself in the saddle, rode with the "six hundred" into the Valley of the Shadow of Death. This man was seen among the Russian batteries, sabering the gunners right and left, slaying with his own hands at least six of the enemy, cutting his way in the retreat through the swarms of Russian cavalry which vainly sought to intercept the remnant of the gallant band, and wonderful to relate, he rode back still smoking his pipe as coolly, as if nothing had happened, without having received a single scratch.

TRouble between Raftmen and the Steamer Galena.—The Galena Advertiser of a late date has the following particulars of the late difficulty between the steamer Galena and some raftmen, which it obtained from Mr. Vinden, clerk of the steamer Northern Belle:

When the Galena landed at Reed's Landing on Tuesday last, two raftmen who had not paid for their passage started to go ashore. Mr. Holliday, clerk of the steamer, requested payment; they refused, and when he again demanded their fare, one of them struck at him with a slingshot, which fortunately missed him. The captain, who had witnessed the scene, informed them that they had better pay their fare and prevent trouble. After some words, one of them struck at Capt. Laughton with the slingshot, which he dodged, and then knocked the man off from the gangway into the river. The man scrambled out and ran up into the town, and was pursued, but escaped himself. The crew then proceeded to discharge the freight on board for Reed's Landing, and while doing so a number of raftmen, who had been collected, marched down to the levee and commenced an attack upon the crew and the boat with rocks and other missiles.

A general melee ensued, in which passengers took an active part. Capt. Laughton was considerably hurt by a stone striking him in the breast. Some of the passengers had firearms and used them freely, and wounded two of the raftmen. Another was struck on the head with a rock and dangerously wounded. They were finally beaten off, but when the boat shoved off from the shore they rallied again and fired some shots into the steamer, doing, however, but little damage. No one on board the boat was seriously injured in the melee. The raftmen, when the Northern Belle came down, were making preparations to renew their attack upon the return of the Galena. Several rafts had been stopped and their crews detained to take part in the affray.—They had endeavored to obtain a cannon from North Pekin, but it was refused them. The people of Washashaw and the best citizens of Reed's Landing, together with the Sheriff of the county, were determined to sustain Capt. Laughton, whom they exculpated from blame in the matter.

Dreadful Occurrence.—A boy eaten up by a bear almost within the City Limits.—We have succeeded with some difficulty in learning the particulars of a shocking occurrence which took place on the Hamtramck marshes on last Tuesday, in which a boy, eleven years old, was actually eaten up alive by a bear, within sight of the city. The circumstances of the case are as follows: A man named Joseph Rademacher, a German, living on Macomb street, between Kilard and Russell, went out on Tuesday morning, in company with a little brother, to pick raspberries. They carried their dinners with them and went some five or six miles out, before commencing their day's work. Rademacher deposited his dinner basket and coat on the ground, and employed himself for some time in picking berries, when, his attention being attracted by a noise, he looked around, and, to his intense astonishment, saw a large bear, accompanied by three cubs, engaged in devouring his dinner. It was but the work of a moment to drop his basket of berries, and hurry, with his younger brother, away from the spot. He saw two boys not far from him when he left the spot, but said nothing to them. Before himself and brother had got a safe distance, they heard terrible screams in the direction they had left, which only served to accelerate their pace, and place a greater distance between them and danger. They were soon overtaken by one of the boys, who came rushing after them in a bewilderment of fright, screaming out that the bear was eating his brother. Rademacher received this intelligence in utter dismay, and took to his heels with a will, followed by the two boys, and deserting the sufferer to his fate. The cowardly rascals soon brought them to the city, when they spread the alarm, and a large party was quickly formed for the rescue, which proceeded to the scene of the disaster, accompanied by Rademacher and the father of the unfortunate boy. A long search resulted in finding the remains of the boy, the bear having eaten up about half of the corpse and buried the remainder for a future meal. Remnants of his clothes were found scattered around, together with Rademacher's coat, torn to pieces. —Detroit Free Press.

How They MARRY AND LIVE.—A young man meets a pretty face, falls in love with it, courts it, marries it, goes to housekeeping with it, and boasts of having a home and a wife to grace it. The chances are nine to one that he has neither. Her pretty face gets to be an old story or becomes faded or freckled or freckled; and as the face was all he wanted, all he paid attention to, all he sat up with, all he bargained for, all he swore to love, honor, and protect, he gets sick of his trade, knows a dozen faces which he likes better, gives up staying at home evenings, consoles himself with cigars, papers, and politics, and looks upon his home as a very indifferent boarding-house. A family of children grow up about him; but neither he nor his "face" know anything about training them, so they come up helter-skelter; made toys of when babies, dolls when boys and girls, drudges when young men and women; and so passes year after year, and not one quiet, happy, homely hour is known throughout the entire household.

Another young man becomes enamored of a "fortune." He waits upon it to parties, exchanges lett deau with it, pops the question to it, gets "yes" from it, carries it home, sets up an establishment with it, introduces it to his friends, and says—"poor fellow!"—that he, too, is married and has got a home. It's false. He is not married, and has no home; and he soon finds it out. He is in the wrong box, but it is too late to get out of it. He might as well hope to escape from his coffin. Friends congratulate him, and he has to grin and bear it. They praise the house, the furniture, the cradle, the Bible, the new baby, and then bid the "fortune" and he who husbands it good morning! as if he had known a good morning since he and that gilded fortune were falsely declared to be one.

Take another case. A young lady is smitten with a pair of whiskers. Curled hair never before had such charms. She sets her cap for them; they take. The delighted whiskers make an offer, proffering themselves both in exchange for one heart. The dear miss is overcome with magnanimity, closes the bargain, carries home the prize, shows it to pa and ma, calls herself engaged to it, thinks there never was such a pair of whiskers before, and they are married. Married! Yes, the world calls it so, and what is the result? A short honeymoon, and then they unluckily discover that they are as unlike as chalk and cheese, and not to be made one, though all the preachers in Christendom pronounce it so. —New Haven Palladium.

CARRYING A VERDICT BY STRATAGEM.—The following plan is stated to have been pursued by some officials at the late Worcester sessions (England) to hasten the decision of a refractory jury, who were locked up to consider their verdict. It was past supper time, and the court officials had no relish to pass the night in waiting upon the two good men who were so excessively conscientious. A large dish of beefsteaks, fried onions, giving off a body of aroma sufficient to fill the largest hall in England, was brought into the passage close to the door of the unhappy jurymen's prison. The bailiff, who wished the "standouts" at Jericho, opened the door; the cover was taken off the dish; the aroma of the steaks and onions floated in; it invaded and pervaded every square inch of the Black Hole, and the jury's noses were violently affected. Mere mortal Englishmen could not long stand out against such a remembrance of supper. A second opening of the door and an advancement of the dish enabled the jury to find a verdict.

NEW ENTERPRISE.—We are credibly informed that a number of gentlemen of this town are about to purchase a ship to be engaged in the capture of the "sea elephant," to sail under the command of Capt. Israel Morey, late of the barque Phenix, of this port. These animals average from one to two barrels of oil apiece, and are found in the largest numbers, we believe, on the Desolation Islands. This business has been successfully prosecuted by New London people, and we trust will prove equally profitable to Nantucket capitalists. A ship sailing in this business is accompanied by a schooner, as a tender, it being necessary to go nearer the shore than would be safe for a larger vessel. The method of capturing is similar to that of the seal.

Arrest of a Gang of Dealers in Counterfeit Bank Notes and Bogus Coin in Rush, Henry, Bartholomew, Decatur, and Delaware counties.

The statements we gave in our paper of Saturday, taken from the Lafayette Courier and Cincinnati Commercial, in reference to the discovery and arrest of a number of men in the above-named counties in this State, who have hitherto occupied respectable positions in society, for the crime of dealing in and passing counterfeit bank notes and bogus coin, are, in the main, true. Some of the citizens of Henry and Rush counties, who had occasion to suspect that those operations were going on in their midst, secured the services of Mr. William Reany, of Cincinnati, an accomplished detective police officer, to fix the crime and arrest the guilty parties in these nefarious transactions. Before the arrest he was engaged about three weeks, with the aid of a young man brought with him from Cincinnati as a decoy, in securing the information necessary to convict the arrested parties. Enough information has been developed to make it certain that there is an extensive and well organized association throughout this State, Ohio, and Kentucky, composed of men who stand fair, who are engaged in the selling and passing of counterfeit and bogus currency. When it was known that the arrests were made, several citizens of Rush and Henry counties suddenly found business in Morgan county and left, and one physician informed his wife that he was compelled to go to "mill," but has not been heard from since his departure. The officers are continuing their search for guilty parties, with fair prospects of making other arrests. One individual left his luggage at the Galt House, in this city, to be called for, but has not yet thought it best to return for it.

The first individual arrested was Dr. Patterson, of Cartwright, Rush county, who has had an extensive practice in that section of the country. He is represented as a man of about 48 years of age, amiable and dangerous, and has been in the habit of carrying revolvers and Bowie-knives for the purpose of intimidation. He admitted, after his arrest, that he had been engaged in the business for two years, but it is supposed that it has extended back five or six. He engaged in the business first, he says, for the purpose of detecting some men whom he supposed were engaged in it, but finding it profitable he continued it. He was decoyed to sell some counterfeit $10 bills on the Northwestern Bank of Virginia, a dangerous counterfeit, and after the sale of $50 to two men was arrested, taken to a private hotel in hotel and ironed. Mr. Reany asked the Doctor where the balance of the $100 was he had agreed to sell, and he informed him it was under the cover of a stand in his office. It was found there, with other packages concealed, amounting to $250. A trap door into an attic story was opened, the officer reached up, found three bottles marked quinine, in which were found rolls of counterfeit bank bills. Rolls of old newspapers were also found there containing 120 bogus half dollars. A cellar was discovered under his bed room, the only access to which was a small trap-door in the floor, at the side of the bed, covered by a carpet. It was a complete dungeon, without light, but fitted up with tables, chairs, &c., in good order for business. The officers found secreted in various parts of his office packages of counterfeit bills and bogus coin. Letters were found, in his possession from different members of the gang containing information, in which the real meaning was concealed in slang phrases well known to the profession.

Dr. Patterson is represented to be a man of the worst habits. He has a wife and child, but did not associate with them. He ate and slept in his office, where he was visited by abandoned females. More than a hundred indecent daguerreotypes of himself and his female friends were found in his office. The Doctor was examined before a justice of the peace in Rushville, recognized in the sum of $3,000, and committed in default of bail.

The next person arrested was Dr. Rogers, of Knightstown, a man with a large family and respectively connected. He has no business, but represents himself as a sporting gentleman. He had, also, been engaged in selling Northwestern Bank of Virginia bank notes. In searching him they found a $10 new counterfeit bill on the Hatters' Bank, Conn. It was secured by the officers.

The next one arrested was Perry Bennett, of St. Omar, who has been a terror of the country. He had knocked down a sheriff when about to arrest him, and was under indictment for assault and battery with intent to kill the sheriff of the county, but county officers were afraid to arrest him. He is also a fugitive from justice from Illinois. He was arrested by Mr. Reany and his posse, and $20 in new counterfeit bills on the Reading Bank, Penn., was found upon him. He was taken to Rushville and committed for having counterfeit money in his possession, and on the indictment pending against him.

Dr. Lewis Frazer was arrested in Jonesville, Bartholomew county. When the Dr. was arrested, he attempted to conceal a quantity of bogus half dollars behind a log. He acknowledged his connection with the gang, but said that he had been drawn into it by Patterson. He was handed over to U. S. Commissioner Orr, of this city, who committed him in default of $2,000 bail. Dr. Frazer has undoubtedly been seduced into these operations by designing men. Correspondence as to dealing with the gang was found upon him.

Dr. Allen Robinson was next arrested at Muncie, a man near 60 years of age. He has been before arrested for dealing in counterfeit bank notes, but turning State's evidence was discharged. On his person and in a bureau drawer in his house were found counterfeit coin and bank notes from ten cents up to $50. The following is a description of the bank notes: North Western Bank, Virginia, denomination $10—some new and others soiled for circulation; State Bank of Indiana $10's; Northern Bank, Kentucky, $10's; Bank of Corning, N. Y., $10's; Ohio Stock Bank $5's; Mercantile Bank, Hartford, Conn., $5's; Exchange Bank, Hartford, $1's; Farmers' Bank, Indiana, $10's; North Carolina $50's. Three bogus half dollars were found in his office, beside a galvanic battery, just prepared for circulation. Counterfeit dimes and also spurious gold dollars were discovered about his premises. The whole amount found was $713.70. This man was taken before the U. S. Commissioner at Rushville and committed in default of $2,000 bail.

Crucibles for melting were found at Dr. Robinson's, but no dies. A lot of new cents, of the late issue, were found in his possession, which were undoubtedly intended to be used for making the composition for counterfeit coin. Mr. Reany says that new counterfeit bills were put in circulation the same day in Rush, Henry, Decatur, and Bartholomew counties that they were in Kentucky and Indiana, thus proving the extent of the organization and the perfect understanding of the members of the gang had with each other.

These developments in crime, in connection with others through various portions of the country, are astounding.

[Special dispatch to the New York Daily Times.]

WASHINGTON, July 31, 1857.

There are four principal subjects of controversy with New Granada, viz:

1. Indemnity for the injury done to our citizens in the Panama riot of April, 1856.

2. The tonnage tax upon American commerce.

3. The proposed tax upon correspondence crossing the Isthmus;

4. The security of the railroad transit.

Nothing definite has been settled between General Herrera and General Casas except in regard to the matter of indemnity, upon which point a basis of agreement has been agreed to. The second and third points are still under discussion.

The fourth and most difficult question of all, has not yet been especially dealt with—indeed, it can scarcely be said to have been yet under discussion. The cession of a portion of the Isthmus to the United States is looked upon as desirable in many respects—but constitutional questions arise here as to the power of the United States to acquire any sort of control over it, unless it is to be acquired with a view to admission as a State into the Union. These are difficulties which does not seem to have presented themselves at all to the late Administration, but are urged with a good deal of earnestness by some at the time.

It is impossible to foretell the result of the negotiation, for the President himself has not yet determined upon the proper course to be pursued; but, in any event, the subject will not be disposed of so speedily as many seem to have anticipated.

WHITE TEETH, PERFUMED BREATH, AND BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION—can be acquired by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath, when the using "BALM OF A THOUSAND FLOWERS" as a dentifrice, would not only render it sweet, but leave the teeth white as alabaster? Many persons do not know their breath is bad, and the subject is so delicate their friends will never mention it. Beware of counterfeits. Be sure each bottle is signed. —FETRIDGE & CO., N. Y.
